- (2) any and all necessary authorization(s) from the undersigned's employer(s) for the disclosure of the information discussed in the paper have been obtained,
- (3) the paper is original and that he/she is the author of the paper; to the extent the paper incorporates text passages, figures, data or other material from the works of others, the undersigned has obtained any necessary permissions, and
- (4) the paper is not submitted elsewhere.

e-Informatica reserves the right to refuse publication of the paper for failure to certify the foregoing.

Authors/employers retain all proprietary rights in any process, procedure, or article of manufacture described in the paper.

Republication of the paper (for example as part of a collection of articles published as a book), or translation into another language, requires written permission from e-Informatica. The undersigned is free to reuse the material of the article in another publication, provided the new publication is substantially different from the original article. In the event the above work is not accepted and published by e-Informatica or is withdrawn by the author(s) before acceptance by e-Informatica, this form agreement becomes null and void.

Policy on Original Publication: It is the policy of the e-Informatica Editorial Board that Wrocław University of Technology be the sole, original publisher of articles. Manuscripts that have been submitted simultaneously to other magazines, journals or to conferences, symposia, or workshops without the prior written consent of the Editor-in-Chief will be rejected outright and will not be reconsidered. Publication of expanded versions of papers that have been disseminated via proceedings or newsletters is permitted only if the Editor-in-Chief judges that there is significant additional benefit to be gained from journal publication. A conference chairperson can arrange with the Editor-in-Chief to publish selected papers from conferences, symposia, and workshops, after suitable reviewing. The papers must meet the editorial requirements for research articles. Acknowledgement of the originating conference will appear as a credit when the paper is published in e-Informatica.
